

Math/Science EXPO

Interested in math and science?

Then the math/science EXPO is the place to be. The event is open to the entire community.

The math and science Division is hosting the 4th Annual math and science EXPO.

What is this event?

The Science/Math EXPO is a community outreach event that showcases 60 or more hands-on activities which engages three to eighth grades in major concepts of math and science.

The hands on activities are produced and lead by VSCC math and science students.

This year, in addition to the hands-on demonstrations the Expo will also have the following activities; a moon sample of rocks and soil collected from an Apollo mission from NASA will be on exhibition, the engineering class will have an egg drop contest where participants will design and build containment devices to protect eggs in the egg drop, reenactments of historical scientist and mathematicians: Sir Isaac Newton, Madam and Pierre Curie and Charles Darwin.

The EXPO will be located in the John Wallace Health Science Building on campus and it is Thursday, April 7 from 3:00 p.m. - 6 p.m.
