

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You will annoy your family all week when you spend your entire vacation in a delusional haze believing that your cats actually miss you.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
You will be frustrated this week when Her Sovereign Majesty Queen Elizabeth II resumes monarchical duties over the United States, forcing you to reinstate the letter "U" in words such as "favour," "neighbour" and "colour."

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21)
You have an inventive mind and are inclined to be creative. On the other hand, you lie a great deal.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)
There are in fact good and evil twins, but a greater range of moral choices are available to you as a sextuplet.

LEO (July 23- August 22)
Pace yourself at work this week,

Leo! If you spend all morning looking out the window and aimlessly replying to stupid brown nosing, back-slapping inter office emails, it will leave you with nothing to do in the afternoon.

VIRGO (August 23 – September 22)
The stars apologize for skipping you last week. They just didn't feel like dealing with your sorry ass.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 23)
This week you are careless and impractical, and you will repeatedly make mistakes. People think you are stupid.

SCORPIO (October 24 - November 21)
Your long awaited journey in Muskrat Land goes terribly awry when you run over and kill both Susie and Sam as they're singin' and jingin' the jango.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-

December 21)
You will be devastated this week when you discover that the nickname "Dancing Outlaw" has already been taken by Jesco White from Boone County, West Virginia.

CAPRICORN (December 22- January 19)
Please, for the love of god, buy some new jeans. No one wants to tell you have the male version of "camel-toe."

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Follow your dream, but not too closely because if it makes a sudden stop you might smash into it.

PISCES (February 19- March 20)
Throw your trumpet in the pond and keep marching with your head held high.

BIZARRE OCCURENCES

As a condition of her probation, a Texas state district judge ordered a drug offender, 17, not to have sex, according to the A.P.

The defendant is not the only person to be given prudish orders.

Female attorneys are prohibited from wearing sleeveless shirts or showing cleavage in the courtroom.

Judge Lauri Blake has also banned tattoos, body piercings, earrings and clothing "associated with the drug culture" for defendants given probation.

A Lafferty, Ohio man has been arrested on dog sex charges, according to the Times Leader of Martins Ferry, Ohio.

John Paskel, 52, was charged with animal cruelty and probation violations after a witness saw him having sex with a neighbor's dog.

Residents of a town called Lajas in Puerto Rico are so convinced that aliens are visiting them that they decided to build a landing strip to welcome the other-worldly visitors.

According to CNN, "a bright green sign along a lonely country road in southwestern Puerto Rico proudly displays a silhouette of a flying saucer and two words: 'Extraterrestrial Route.'"

The sign and the call for a landing strip was prompted by elementary school teacher Reynaldo Rios.

"I can't say exactly when they will come, but I know it will happen," Rios said. "I want to keep believing in my dreams."

Lajas mayor Marcos Irizarry insisted his support for the project was solely in the interest of drawing tourism.

In the midst of the constant news coverage of Hurricane Katrina, the Agence France Presse (AFP) widely distributed a photograph displaying a valid debit card number belonging to one of the Katrina victims.

According to Snopes.com, evacuee Latesha Vinette was at the Reliant Center in Houston when she openly displayed her debit card for press photographers.

The debit card was one of the many debit cards distributed by the federal government in the wake of Katrina's damage.

The photograph was distributed to several news outlets, including Yahoo! News. Within hours of the photo's distribution, Vinette received a phonecall from Mastercard inquiring about numerous cash advances totaling $65,237.

In addition to the cash advances, Mastercard asked about several E-bay purchases and the attempted purchase of a Ferrari using her debit card.

A gay penguin couple has reportedly split up, according to the News Corporation of Australia.

Silo and Roy, co-habiting penguins held in captivity in Central Park Zoo, drew media attention as the animal kingdom's most famous gay couple.

The two have raised an adoptive chick and inspired six other gay animal couples at the zoo.

The relationship ended when Scrapy, a female penguin, moved into the neighborhood and caught Silo's eye.

Silo quickly moved out of the dwelling he shared with Roy and built a new nest with Scrapy.

Seth Hammes, 17, and a friend were filming with a camcorder in the woods when Hammes was allegedly shot by his friend, Russell Schroeder, 24.

According to Action News in Pittsburgh, the camcorder recorded the gunshot, Hammes' screams, and Schroeder's promise he would return with help.

The video showed that Schroeder attempted to call for help on his cell phone, but he was unable to get a signal in the secluded forest. The video recorded Schroeder's promise to get help.

Instead of getting help, according to authorities, Schroeder went to a birthday party, home to play video games and finally to his job as a custodian at the Army's Fort McCoy.

Schroeder told police he didn't call for help because he was scared. He stated that he thought he was shooting at a squirrel until he heard Hammes scream. Hammes was shot with a .21 caliber rifle.

If convicted of reckless homicide and reckless injury, Schroeder could receive 85 years in prison.
