

Students get funky while making their own music videos

Last Wednesday, Chuck Connors brought his video-making equipment to Vol State, giving students to opportunity to lip-sync and play "guitar" to their favorite songs, while being recorded to various backgrounds and video effects. Mario Jones, Jesse Allen, Derrick Armour, and Dwayne Woods got in touch with their inner rappers. Tim Edmond grabbed the axe and mimicked being a rock and roll guitar god.

The event was sponsored by ACE and student government. It was held in the cafeteria Oct. 5.
